

José Calado assumes AXIANS Global Partnerships

Axians Portugal with national talent in the international brand team in Paris

José Calado was appointed by AXIANS as the new Alliance Coordination Manager in the group’s global structure. This will be the first international position held by a member of the Portuguese team who will be responsible for developing the network of international partners throughout AXIANS.

José Calado was Head of Enterprise Systems at Axians Portugal. He was responsible for the development of human-centric, integrated, secure and scalable business systems solutions, mainly focused on creating value for large corporate clients.

“For Axians Portugal, the appointment of José fills us with pride, not only because of the importance of the job to be performed, reporting directly to the global team in Paris, but also for the recognition of the value of our operation and of our professionals. It is another initiative that reinforces Portugal’s position on VINCI Energies’ map, “said Pedro Afonso, CEO of Axians Portugal.

José Calado said that “the sense of commitment that the new position conveys, as well as the opportunity to boost and develop AXIANS and its network of partnerships for the whole structure of the group is undoubtedly a very stimulating and prestigious challenge all the work that has been done from Portugal “.

José Calado started his career at Tekever as a Innovation Consultant, then went on to Unisys as a Productivity Platforms Program Leader, ending at Novabase IMS to play the role of Head of Enterprise Systems Business Development.

He holds a degree in Computer Engineering from Instituto Superior Técnico, and holds a Master’s degree in Management with specialization in Digital Innovation from the Catholic Lisbon School of Business and Economics.
